

AMUSEMENTS.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC.—On Monday evening Miss Caroline Richings will inaugurate her English opera season by the production of Flotow's popular opera, Martha. The cast will embrace Miss Richings, Mrs. Seaman, and Messrs. Campbell, Castle, Seguin, and Peckes.

THEATRE DE NIGHT.—At the new Chestnut Street Theatre Mr. and Mrs. Barney Williams appear in All Hail Eve and the Lover of Killarney. The new drama of the Three Jewels will also be played. On Monday night the Williamses commence their seventh week with The Shamrock or The Flower of Erin. This new play will be brought out with new scenery and an admirable cast.

At the Walnut, Mr. Brougham appears for the last time. He gives us Peasblossom, Bachelor of Arts, and Love and Marriages. Mr. B. Roberts also appears in the same theatre. At the Arch Street Theatre, Mr. G. I. Fox and his "little brother," U. K. Fox, will give the wonderful "Jack-in-the-box" pantomime. "Mary" will have her "little lamb," and "Little Johnny Horner" will sit in a corner.

At the American Theatre, Miss Nellie Williams and Mr. Felix A. Vincent will close the dramatic season with a first-rate entertainment.

NEW THEATRICAL THINGS NEXT WEEK.—On Tuesday evening, at the Walnut Street Theatre, Mr. Charles Walcott, Jr., the son of the well-known dramatist, and one of our most pleasing and genuine actors, will take his annual benefit. He will give his fine rendition of "old Peter" in the Ostrich, with the most splendid effects.

On Thursday, the 7th inst., Mr. Owen Faucett, the popular comedian of this establishment, takes his annual benefit, and offers one of the best bills of novelties given this season—drama, comedy, and farce. "The Miller of New Jersey," by John Brougham, Esq., is full of fun, and is the most successful of the late productions. Mr. Faucett's friends should show themselves on this occasion.

On Friday, Mr. Thomas J. Hemphill, the business manager, will be the recipient of a benefit. He will produce the new comedy of "Boston Friends," with other pieces.

At the Arch Street Theatre, Mrs. Emeline D. Wallace's new comedy of "The Ringer" will be produced on Monday evening.

On Monday night, Mr. Earnshaw will reopen the New American Theatre for a variety season, with "The Combination Troupe."

Mr. Kennedy, the great Scotch balladist, will appear at the Assembly Buildings in new programs, on Monday, Wednesday, Friday, and Saturday evenings of next week.

CANROSS & DIXIE, at their Opera House, in Eleventh street, above Chestnut, will continue their popular burlesque bill during the coming week.

THE BROTHER JONATHAN OLD FOLKS will give their first concert in this city on the 16th inst.

A Glance at the Sleighing.

The sleighing season is fairly inaugurated, and our contemporaries are busy describing the teams and tournaments on the Brighton road. We, however, give a glance at the great National race-course, which will perhaps be of some interest.

The fine horse, Tariff, driven by Mr. Wells, attracted the universal attention. Many thought his action not free enough, others liked him for a high horse. Wells handled the ribbons and things with coolness and skill.

Horse Pharaoh, driven by Fernando Wood, a game animal bound to go in and win. Wood carries a steady hand, and his team slips along like a gold dollar over billiard cloth; notwithstanding his speed, however, he takes everybody's "duer."

Horse Sambo, driven by Mr. Sumner, a serviceable steed, of the District of Columbia, and destined to equal any in free action.

Blower—Mr. Jack Rogers—a sound animal of unexampled and unflinching will, will tire down anything on the course.

Polley, by Mr. A. Johnson, a nag rather used up, and of some pretension, but no bottom, was observed, and a brush expected between him and Congress, a courier of much pluck and obstinacy, managed by Thad. Stevens, whose irritation at the notion of a number of Southern jockeys, that were attempting to break into the course from which they had been thrashed, instead of coming by the proper entrance, caused fears to be entertained for their safety if Congress got among them.

Head and Butter, driven by General Swift, a steed that there was money in; the General evidently knew his "biz," and soon moved his friends his back.

Boxer, a steed that struck out well at regular knock-down pace, driven by Mr. Morrissey, who made a hit in a match with Congress; many of the spectators were struck by the skillful action of the driver.

Popularity, driven with great skill, and very quietly, by General Gray, was admired by all. John Bull, driven by U. Samuel, the driver had an Alabama whip, the crack of which imparted celerity to his steed.

Fenian, a broken-winded nag, evidently once a vigorous steed, but used up by the mismanagement of the driver, Mr. Stephens.

Ben. Butler trotted out a new horse, "Impeachment," of which stable men in general are rather shy. The General is a skilled jockey, however, and always keeps one eye out to windward.

Senators McDougal and Saulsbury sported a light cutter drawn by the spirited animal "Barleycorn." This horse is not reliable, but for a short "burst" is unequalled.

Secretary Welles turned out a characteristic equipage—a sleigh shaped like a sea-shell, and drawn by a horse-mackerel. This steed is rather slow, but has great power of "holding on."
